

ABSTRACT

A connection system is provided for facilitating a downhole electrical reservoir monitoring and/or control system operated by a surface system. The connector system includes a 5 set of fuses and a fuse blowing circuit for isolating a short circuit event and restoring functionality to the remaining components of the downhole system.